from the Trenches

My feeling is that the American Board of Internal Medicine is using maintenance of certification as a money-making proposition and is not very concerned about all the demands of private practice. They may be doing this in the name of improving quality, but in reality they are going to drive some very experienced physicians out of practice.

Benjamin Lieberman, MD

from the Trenches

If it is government and the public believe that the best and the longest term will go to school and not until their 36th birthday and incur hundreds of thousands of dollars of debt in order to make less than most public safety officers, they will be let down by the system.

Evan Rosner, MD

From the Trenches

in the Trenches

McGWhorter Time, Money

I am a board certified family practice physician. I have been doing this for over 30 years.

Steve McGWhorter, MD

From the Trenches

"On a peaceful yet foreboding plane flying over the landscape of medicine and ignoring the personal, the human, and the intuitive dimensions that are intertwined with the scientific and are almost impossible to measure with conventional multiple-choice questions.

Michael Spiroff, MD"